

ABSTRACT:

A pillar sink mixer has a hot water faucet pillar, a cold water faucet pillar, a mixing chamber and a diverter valve to supply mixed water to a faucet nozzle or to a hand spray. The mixing chamber and diverter valve are positioned in a bridge above a mounting surface, and a passage, providing fluid communication with the hand spray device, being incorporated within the bridge and a faucet pillar.